Jews were accused by the Russians of complicity with German Forces during WW1. Jewish families were exiled from their native places to the depth of Russia about 1915. Sam was 13 years old then. The deportations were without regard for health or food. Families were forced through the snow & ice & many died of starvation or typhus. Sam's sister Esther spoke of rummaging through trash looking for food. Sam's father & sister Tsipa died of starvation. Sam & his brother Jack sold candy & cigarettes for money for food.

Sam was conscripted into the Russian army whilst in Kharkov. Husbands or sons were taken to the front in Russia during the First World War. Sam was probably taken in 1917 at the age of 15 years.

Jewish families tried to return to the places from where they left. The same happened with other Gochin families. His new life started and he, as all people around him, had to obtain permanent documents in the new state so that he would not be counted as a foreigner and returned to Russia. Sam, being more than 20 years old, applied for his Internal Passport at Papile municipality. Many other family members similarly applied.

The idea to emigrate was born in Sam's head much earlier than 1925. By 1923 he was receiving cards from relatives, where one can clearly see the farewell mood of the cards. There could be plenty of reasons why Sam did not emigrate earlier. These are unknown - one of the reasons could be military service. People wishing to leave Lithuania had to collect numerous documents from the municipality, courts, etc. But first they had to obtain a foreign passport. To obtain a passport, people had to give the authorities documents which could confirm their age, descent, living place, occupation etc. If men could not obtain a birth certificate from their birth place, the documents of the military recruitment commission were accepted

The army of the Lithuanian State Defense started to operate after the Independent Republic of Lithuania was created. Published rules stated that young men of age 20 were to be mobilized for military service. In the first years the system did not work perfectly, so men who were conscripted were approximately that age. Lithuania was divided into regions where separate parts of the army were located. Usually, men were sent to the nearest troop to their place of residence. Sam was from Papile - he was called to the troop of Siauliai. Every troop had its own numeration. In Siauliai it was the 8th Doughboys Troop. The number on Sam's military uniform shoulder was 5. This means his military place of service was KAUNAS, the 5th Grand Duke Kestutis Doughboys Troop. He was called by the recruitment commission of Siauliai district in the second quarter of 1924. Then he had to be transferred to the 5 -th Grand Duke Kestutis doughboy troop in Kaunas. The physical location of troop buildings was in Aukstoji Panemune (the sub district of Kaunas as Slabodka, Zaliakalnis and etc.). There stood the Tsar's army buildings, which had been taken over by Lithuanian army.

Sam was registered as a patient at the War Hospital of Jonas Basanavicius in Kaunas on 6 June 1924. In his case record from the hospital it is recommended to relieve him of his service and for him to be put on the list of reservists. The recommendations had their own weight in the eyes of the troops leaders, but they were not obligatory. Sam was not relieved from service and performed his entire military service, i.e. 1.5 years. He was freed from service at the end of 1925 and in the spring of the next year he left Lithuania.

Sam was in love with his first cousin, Masha Gochin, daughter of Mones. She was too young to be married so Sam left for South Africa without her. Masha was later murdered in the Holocaust.

On 5 Nov 1924 in Papile, Sam was issued an internal passport of the Lithuanian Republic (Nr. 767121) - file // LCVA. F. 412. In. 7. File. 92. P. 16

On 15 Jan 1926 he was given another internal passport of the Lithuanian Republic (Nr. Nr.127 - 4208) to Samuel Gochin from Papile// LCVA. F. 412. In. 8. File. 325. p. 16 By that time Sam had already completed his military service so perhaps he had lost his first internal passport somewhere during his military service. It was not difficult to obtain a replacement passport when one was already recognized as a citizen of Lithuania. This second internal passport was issued before he left Lithuania.

According to the rules, Sam had to return his internal passport before leaving the country or at least the files had to exist on what basis he obtained his passport.

Sam was a kind man, he worked hard for his family, supported them all & gave generously to many relatives. He denied himself many of the pleasures of life so that he could offer assistance to his relatives.

Sam epitomized the qualities of humanity, respect, dignity and work ethic.

Notes for REBECCA (RIVKA) RUMMEL:

In about 1924 she left for Germany. Worked as a maid in Berlin, attended art school & became a ballet and gymnastics teacher.

In 1939 she was summoned by the Nazis and was told to leave that same day. She & Greenberg & his parents went back to Latvia.

When the Nazi's invaded Latvia, she & her son were on the last train leaving Latvia. Greenberg ran back to get his parents but they missed the train & were murdered in the ghetto.

She & Shalom went to Russkoe, Russia.

After the war Rivka went back to Bauska, Latvia where she re-met Vesterman.

Notes for ISRAEL GREENBERG:

Greenberg & his parents were living in Berlin. He was a language teacher at Berlin. They were called in by the Nazi's in 1939 & told to leave Germany that same day. They moved to Latvia. On the day the Germans invaded Latvia, the Russians provided a train to take Jews into Russia. Rivka & her son Shalom were on the train & Greenberg ran back to hurry his parents along to get them onto the train. The train left the station without Greenberg and his parents who were then taken in the Ghetto & later killed in Salaspils.

Notes for CHAIM VESTERMAN:

Chaim Vesterman was in the Ghetto with Israel Greenberg. Chaim tried to get Israel to flee the ghetto, but Israel refused. Chaim jumped on a streetcar & escaped the ghetto. He went to the shtetl Ogre, Latvia where he lived for about 2 years. He then lived in the forest for a year. After the war he went to Bauska where he became Director of a Government Dept.

Chaim's first wife and children were murdered.
